SLUMP IN THE STOCK MARKET ON NEWS FROM WASHINGTON

Suspension of Five Per Cent in Freight Rates Taken Seriously on the New York Exchange.

By BROADAN WALL.

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Ten minutes before the stock exchange opened today news came from Washington that the propesed 5 per cent freight rate advances would be suspended until September 12. This should not be taken too seriously, as it can be rescinded at any time. The announcement was well timed for speculative effect, and followed a selling movement in the London market that originated here. An impression is current on the street that the speculative value of the information was appreciative. International News Service.

Value of the information was appreciative.

London houses sold freel; at the opening. Union Pacific fell below 62 Amaigamated lost a point, Erie broke through 35, and the price of Canadian Pacific showed a two-point decline.

Steel, during the first hour, dropped a full point and was offered at 855. Then Allan Ryan walked into the crowd, after an absence from the floor of some three years. Steel rose to 654, where Howland Pell bought 7000 shares, carrying the price to 65, about which figure it hung for the balance of the day.

Firm on Decline.

Selling for London, which totaled some 40,000 shares, was mistaken by traders for commission house liquidation, but efforts to profit by short sales did not bring out liberal offerings. Southern Pacific showed good support at 96, and the general tone was firm on the decline.

New York Central was dull and heavy and New Haven was weak, selling at 70%. Coal stocks declined easily. Dela-ware & Hudson ending with a 52 decline. Reading lost a point and Pittsburg Coal. fell to 21.

Industrials were decidedly irregular. Central Leather sold at a new high fig-ure 35, and Mexican Petroleum dropped four points. Telephone rose from 119% to 121% and Western Union gained 2% on rumors that American Telephone would dispose of its Western Union stock to a syndicate.

Copper Shares Sell Off.

Copper shares sold off with the rest of the list. Egulpment stocks were reactionary, it being argued that the railroads would think twice before plucing further orders for rails, engines or cars, although in some quarters the view was taken that an early and favorable decision on the rate question is still a probability.

Bonds were singuish, with a tendency in prices to react. Convertible issues were easier and short-term notes, in some cases, weak.

Call money renewed at 2 per cent. re-Call money renewed at 2 per cent, reflecting the $17,000,000 loan expansion last week. Another engagement of $2,000,000 gold to go to Paris was announced, making a total of $12,000,000. Further engagements are expected.

Today's market stood the strain of sudden and unfavorable news, bearing in mind that little, if any, improvement could be expected during the present month. Brokers figure that the firm undertone should enable bankers to hold prices around the present level until the spring movement sets in.

WHEAT PRICES FIRM ON CHICAGO MARKET

Bull Speculators Point to the Comparative Smallness of World Shipments.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 .- Wheat prices today showed unvarying firmness, the resut chiefly of European markets gradually working higher. Closing quotations here were steady at ac to to net advance. Corn finished unchanged to 1-160 up, and oats with a gain of a shade, out provisions off 21@5c to 7hc.

Bull speculators in wheat pointed to the comparative smallness of world shipments, and called attention to the untimely rains throughout important harvest sections of India. There were reports, too, that Argentine was buying Australian wheat, but the Chicago trade was not disposed to put much faith in the idea that such a carrying of coal to Newcastle had actually come about. Suspicion that export business was in progress at Duluth formed an element of the strength that characterized wheat. Duluth operators did some heavy buying at Minneapolis, a fact which seemed to imply cash sales to the east. Before the end of the day, however, Duluth turned to the selling side and there was nothing to confirm any inference that foreigners had made new investments in United States wheat.

Not much selling pressure could be put on corn, higher cables and the firmness of wheat being too serious handicaps for the bears. Moreover, there were advices that stocks all over the east were light, despite messages purporting to ask that shippers hold back supplies on account of a lack of distributive demand. Oats had fair support, mainly from shorts, who were impressed by a falling off in the visible supply.

Packers and other longs made free offers of provisions. As a result, the market way regardless of an upward slant in the price of hogs.

lings, $6.00@6.65; wethers, $5.25@5.75; Lived at Nauvoo, Came Here by Ox Team and Was State Builder.

> pecial to The Tribune. OGDEN, Feb. 16 .- The passing of anther of Utah's pioneers, and one of the very early members of the Mormon church, was recorded today when Richard Douglass, aged eighty-seven years, died at the family home, 301 West Twentyeighth street. His death, which was due to old age, occurred after two months illness. During that time he suffered no pain, but gradually weakened. He was fully conscious of his surroundings up to the last, recognizing his wife and those of his children who were at the bedside when he passed away at 10 o'clock this morning.

when he passed away at 10 o'clock this morning.

As the head of one of Weber county's largest families, Mr. Douglass was the father of twenty-five children, thirteen daughters and tweive sons. In addition to these and the widow, he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Isabel Pincock of Ogden, Mrs. James Currie and Mrs. George Ronney of Sait Lake City. The following are the surviving sons and daughters: Mrs. James Wilson, Mrs. John W. Hooper, James H. Douglass, William Douglass, Mrs. John C. Brown, Mrs. Carl Wallin, Mrs. Ashby Stringham, David Douglass, Mrs. C. P. Carlson, Thomas M. Douglass, John Douglass, Mrs. W. A. Reeves, Mrs. D. G. Revor and Walter J. Douglass, There are also sixty-two grandchildren and fifty-four great-grandchildren.

Born in England.

Richard Douglass was born in Downham, Lancashire, England, February 27, 1827. His parents were converted to the Mormon faith by Heber C. Kimball in March, 1828. The family emigrated to America in 1842, coming by way of New Orleans and up the Mississippi river to Nauvoo, Ill. Arriving in Illinois April 6, 1842, they made their home at Nauvoo for four years. During these years the members of the family became familiar with the historical events that occurred in connection with the Mormon church.

The pioneer whose death is recorded Eheriff E. J. Harrop of Jefferson coun-y, Idaho, left Salt Lake last night at 145 o'clock, having in custody A. Neel, was seventeen years of age when Joseph smith and his brother. Hyrum, were martyred. He knew the prophet quite well and often recalled the incidents, both before and after the death of the church leader. Of the ten thousand persons who viewed the body of the leader while it lay in state at the Nauvoo mansion, eight were members of the Douglass family.

Residing at Sugar creek, near Nauvoo, at the time of the expulsion from Illinois, Richard Douglass assisted the members of the church across the Mississippi river and became a member of the company of pioneers when preparations were made for the trip to the west. The company of which Mr. Douglass was a member labored under the direction of Apostle Charles C. Rich. There were nearly thirty persons in the company. It was Mr. Richards and his companions who built the bridges and materially assisted the Latter-day Saints after they started on their westward journely.

After the Mormons left Nauvoo, Mr. Douglass assisted in building the first house at Garden Grove and also aided in fencing the grounds and planting the grain for those who followed. He was finally released from this labor as a ploneer by Apostle C. T. Rich and returned at once to Nauvod. On the return trip he passed his brother, Raiph Douglass, who had been celled as a member of the Mormon battallen to go into Maxico as a United States soldier.

Was in Nauvoo.

Upon his arrival at the Illinois town, Mr. Douglass was an eye-witness to the burning of the Nauvoo temple. At that time he was accompanied by his brother-in-law, John Pincock. They were on board a steamboat going up the Mississippi river and had retired for the night, While passing through the rapids they were summoned from their beds and saw the conflagration which destroyed the temple. During his long life Mr. Douglass never met another person of the Mormon faith who witnessed the burning of the Nauvoo temple.

For six years after the expulsion of the Mormons from Nauvoo. Mr. Douglass resided in St. Louis, during which time he accumulated sufficient means to emigrate to Utah. Accompanied by his mother, her husband, John Parker, and their family, John Pincock and family and Edmund Robbins and family, the start was made from St. Louis in the spring of 1852. There were eleven wagons in all and the vehicles were drawn by ox teams. The party arrived in the Sot Lake valley on August 28, 1852 the spring of 1802. There were eleven wagons in all and the vehicles were drawn by ox teams. The party arrived in the Salt Lake valley on August 28, 1852, the trip having been made without accident. After a month's stay in Salt Lake City, Mr. Douglass and family, together with the Pincocks and the Robbinses, made their homes in Ogden. As a pioneer of this city, Mr. Douglas was a member of the first police force and was also the oldest volunteer fireman. Having brought the first brass instrument to Ogden, he and Thomas Emmett were the founders of the Ogden brass band, an organization which remained in existence for more than forty years. He also constructed the first bridge in this city and creeted his own house, which originally stood near the intersection of Washington avenue and Twenty-fifth street.

wheels of a freight train on which he is believed to have been stealing a ride toward Ogden, was the decision of the sheriff's officers and others following the discovery of the mangled body of Walter Gevski, an Austrian laborer, along the track of the Union Pacific, two miles west of Ulntah, today. The discovery was made by T. Kato, the Japanese foreman of a section gang station at Ulntah.

The head and legs were severad from the trunk and found along the track for a distance of more than 100 feet. From the position of the head and main portion of the body, it seems certain that the man was killed by a westbound train. At So'clock this morning the body was frozen stiff, indicating that the accident occurred several hours prior to that time. The name of the victim was secured from an identification card found in the pocket of the coat. This card requested that in case of death the authorities notify Staniey Michaelwicx, 1209 Harrison street, Whiting, Ind. After the body had been removed to the Kirkendall undertaking rooms, a telegram was sent to the Whiting resident. Gevski was apparently about 35 years old. No money was found in the man's pockets but there were nalieved to have been stealing a ride tothout 35 years old. No money was found in the man's pockets, but there were pa-eers showing that he probably had worked in Park City and Evanston, Wyo.

MARTIN CASE RESET.

Expected That Trial on One Charge Will Consume More Than Two Weeks.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Feb. 18—Because of important court matters in Davis county, which will command his attention throughout the first week of March and possibly longer, Judge J. A. Howell today set the case of Joseph Henry Martin for trial on March 12, instead of March 2 as previously agreed upon by the attorneys. This case is the trial of Martin on the charge of assault with intent to murder Detective David Edwards, the setting of the four indictment cases being indefinitely postponed.

Judge Howell estimates that the Martin case will require the entire time of the court from March 12 during the remainder of the month, and for this reason he set very few cases for trial during the March term, pushing a majority of them along to the April term. The Judge announced that in view of the motion for a change of venue, which is slated for this week, the Martin case may not be tried in his court, in which event he will readjust the calondar to fill in the time between March 12 and 31. Among the important cases postponed on account of the Martin trial is that of Dr. N. D. Estes, indicted by the grand jury for the alleged illegal sale of cocalne and morphine.

Mr. Douglass, in conjunction with his brother, Ralph, was one of the ploneer butchers in Ogden. He also operated a thrashing outfit for twenty consecutive years. He was capable of shaping his life to meet almost any circumstance and for the past fourteen years he was an employee of the city. Notwithstanding his advanced years, Mr. Douglass did not lose a day's work during the long period he was employed by the city as superintendent of the crematory. When he felt the first effects of his last illness, Mr. Douglass tendered his resignation to the commissioners, who paid the ploneer the tribute of having been the Special to The Tribune.

called from view in the trench, was crushed beneath the front portion of the auto, death resulting an hour later from a fracture of the skull.

The fatal accident occurred about 10 o'clock this morning at a point on Lincoln avenue near the intersection of Twenty-seventh street. The two tracks of the Salt Lake & Ogden Railway company are located on this avenue, and Nelder was digging the trench across the west half of the avenue. He had thrown the dirt on both sides of the street, and approaching from the north. Driving along the right side of the street, and approaching from the north. Dr. Forbes could not see the trench on the opposite side of the mound, much less the man whose head was just above the level of the ground when he stood erect in the excavation. The auto driver, supposing the mound to be a filled excavation, the same as several others over which he had just passed along Lincoln avenue, attempted to drive over the Bamberger tracks.

As the front wheels of the machine reached the embankment the driver discovered the man in the trench, but too late to bring the car to a stop. The front wheels dropped into the opening, the springs crushing Neider's head against the south side of the trench. With the assistance of persons who witnessed the accident, the auto was lifted from the trench and the workman carried to the sidewalk. On the advice of Dr. R. S. Joyce, the injured man was not removed to the kirkendall undertaking rooms, pending arrangements for the funeral.

Nelder, who was 20 years old, is survived by the widow, residing at the rear of 256 Twenty-second street. While many persons were inclined to openly censure Dr. Forbes for attempting to drive his auto over a mound of such height, the police officers who made an investigation are convinced that the futer of the trench and that the killing was purely accidental. The physician was nearly overcome with grief as a result of the fatallity. No arrangements have been made for a coroner's inquest.

oday, Dr. Fordes said:

The only statement I desire to make at this time, is that the accident was due to an unfortunate combination of circumstances and conditions which I regret in all its phases as deeply as any human being can regret such a happening.
